Growers Warehouse To Expand To Meet Increased Business.

The Growers Tobacco Warehouse Company at their last regular annual meeting decided to enlarge their facilities for handling loose leaf tobacco, hence their dividend this year did not come up to that of last season, holding back the money to make these improvements. They will shortly begin to excavate under the present warehouse and put in a waterproof concrete basement. This will almost double their facilities for handling loose leaf tobacco, enabling them to clear the floor immediately after each sale.

HOSPITAL NOTES.

Mrs. Dr. W. C. Patton was received Monday and will be operated upon some time this week.

Mr. W. W. Baldwin, of the county, was received and will be operated upon this week.

Littl William Gray is in the hospital having his hip attended to.

Mr. John Burgess, of Tuckahoe, was operated upon at Hayeswood Hospital Monday by Dr. W. H. Taulbee. He was resting easily at last reports.

Mr. E. Purdon, of the East End, was operated upon at Hayeswood Hospital Monday by Dr. A. O. Taylor, for appendicitis. He is doing nicely.

CAPTURES THIRD ROBBER.

The police Monday afternoon captured Hogan Gilbert, wanted for participating in the attempted holdup of Stanley Cobb last Saturday night. Chief Mackey and his efficient corps of police officers deserve credit for the quick work in capturing these bold high-waymen. Such crimes as that of Saturday night make it unsafe for people to even walk on the streets.

Miss Grace Kubel has accepted a lucrative position with F. H. Traxel Company.

More and Better Corn

Make your corn ground pay you with the largest crop obtainable by making sure that the required number of kernels is planted in each hill. The seed must be there. Every "miss" means just that much thinner stand. No amount of cultivation can make up for inaccurate planting. The loss of one ear from every hundred hills costs you the price of one bushel per acre. Be sure that you have the right corn planter and nature will do the rest. We have the most up-to-date corn planting device made, and kind you want, and will be glad to demonstrate them to you. If too busy to come in, phone us your order, and we will take care of you.

DISORGANIZED

Is the Auto Mail System On Routes 1 and 2 Out of Maysville—Patrons Will Be Forced To Seek Some Relief

Mail matter on Rural Routes No. 1 and No. 2, which formerly left the Maysville postoffice at 11:30 a.m. every morning, now leaves at 1:30 p.m., as was briefly stated in The Ledger two weeks ago. This plan practically runs the service to over 300 patrons on the two routes, as they now get their mail late in the afternoon, and the return mail now gets to the Maysville postoffice too late for the outgoing train mail.

The change is so unpopular that every patron on the two routes has signed a petition urging the postoffice officials at Washington to return to the old method of leaving the Maysville postoffice at 11:30 a.m. as formerly. Deceased was a most estimable woman, being loved and admired by all who knew her.

Not a single patron on the two routes is in favor of this new-fangled plan.

There is nothing progressive in it. The carriers do not favor it.

It is the most unpopular thing that has ever done on the Maysville rural routes.

COUNTY COURT.

Court met at 9:30 a.m. Monday, with Hon. W. H. Rice presiding.

On motion of Carolina B. Downing, the court ordered that J. W. Downing be appointed administrator of the estate of Minerva Bayless, deceased. He is qualified as such with H. C. Sharp as surety on bond.

H. C. Sharp, J. B. Durrett and D. R. Newell were appointed appraisers of the personal estate of Minerva Bayless, deceased.

Allie C. James was appointed administrator of the estate of Thomas R. James, without surety.

J. F. Barbour, Charles Wright and James Child were appointed appraisers of the estate of Thomas R. James, and produced an appraisement of the property, which was ordered filed.

M. H. S. INTER-CLASS LEAGUE.

SAVOYARD ON CHAMP CLARK.

And what a pity that this fine man allowed the Presidential bee to get into his bonnet! He thinks and most people think he narrowly escaped the nomination at Baltimore. That is a great mistake. He never stood the slightest chance to get that nomination. Underwood was the dangerous man all the time.

But that is ancient history. Champ Clark writing his book will be a happy man. In the White House he would be the most miserable man who ever held that great place. He is not emphatic enough when saying "no" to be President.—Savoyard's Washington Letter.

VIM MAKES A WAY.

There is nothing else today, besides honesty, that is in such sharp demand as vim.

Every employer is looking for it; everybody believes in it; the man who has it usually makes his mark.

The world steps aside for the man with vim; he outstrips men of far greater ability who are lacking in this essential.

Resolutions, however good, are powerless without the energy to execute them.

Vim clears the track. People get out of the way for it.—Elmira Star.

A few years ago two Irishmen, with not too much knowledge of police duties, gravitated into the Maysville Police Department. They were assigned to a residence district. "Mike," said one of them when they met a few days after they had been on watch, "I've been over on your beat and there is a dead horse on it." "Well, what'll we do?" Mike asked. "Why, don't you know?" Pat replied. "You must make a report and send it in to the station." Mike: "Where is the horse?" Pat: "Over there on Prezmyl street." Mike: "What street?" Pat: "Prezmyl." Mike: "How d'ye spell it?" Pat: "I don't know." Mike scratched his head for a moment, deeply perplexed. "Oh, I've got ye," he said finally. "Let's drag the horse over to Oak street. It's only a square away. I can spell 'Oak' all right."

Beautiful Home For Sale

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dawson have placed with us for sale their new home on East Second street, in the Sixth

Ward. This home is located on a large lot, 72x150 feet, and running back to Williams street. We will not make any attempt to describe this home in detail.

It is built of pressed brick, with hardwood floors, basement under the entire house, slate roofing, hot water, furniture, gas all over the house, and in fact, is modern and complete throughout, and must be seen to be fully appreciated. This beautiful home has been admired by all who have seen it, and every Maysville is justly proud of such enterprising citizens, as the builders of this property. Mr. Dawson's health is such that his physician has advised him to spend his winters in the South, and for that reason he offers his home for sale at less than cost,

$6,500.

LAEMMLE, FILM MAN

Is Called the Little Napoleon of the Moving Pictures.

Universal City, California, the Latest Monument to His Talent—Town Is Peopled by Movie Men and Women.

Carl Laemmle, the founder of Universal City, has done much toward the advancement of moving pictures.

Those who have come in contact with him know what a great leader he is.

This "Little Napoleon of the moving pictures" as his friends call him, arrived in America twenty-nine years ago in steerage without money and ignorance of the language and customs of this country. Beginning as errand boy, he rose through various employments to the management of a large retail clothing store in Oshkosh, Wisconsin. His great virtue was for saving what he earned.

With the ambition of youth he always longed for something bigger and better and was ever on the lookout for an opportunity. He dropped into a moving picture theater in Chicago when that popular pastime was being introduced to the amusement seeking public. He became interested and believed that it was the opportunity he was seeking and made up his mind to enter the field as an exhibitor. Mainly on his nerve, for he had small capital, he opened a theater in Chicago in a desirable locality and it proved successful from the moment the doors were thrown open. A month later never had another theater in profitable operation. Then he branched out into the renting end of the business, which required that he buy a stock of film.

This grew very rapidly and within three months the first Laemmle Film

Service was incorporated.

With the development of the moving picture business there came into the market a great demand for supplies.

THROUGH THE VALLEY OF THE SHADOW.

(By. Rev. John Barbour, D. D.) The Sunday schools had for their lesson Sunday the Twenty-third Psalm. We copy from the Christian Observer the following beautiful illustration of one of its great passages from the pen of Dr. John Barbour, of this city:

Several years ago I had the privilege of visiting the studio of that gifted sculptor and delightful gentleman, Mr. Edward Valentine, in Richmond, Va. Taking me through his gallery of finished work, he showed me several of the masterpieces in which he seemed to feel particular pride. I recall how he fingered before the group of Andromache and Astyanax of the Homeric mythology, interpreting its details to me.

The Divine Comedy.—Alighieri Dante. A book that consumes unusual importance at the present time in view of General Sherman's well known statement about war. Special diagram showing the future dwelling places of European rulers.

Paradise Lost.—John Milton. A magnificent epic dealing with the first great war. A sympathetic human touch is added in the love story of Adam, an English Puritan, and Eve, the First Lady of the Land.

Commentaries.—Julius Caesar. Vivid notes on the Gallic Wars by the first general who was his own war correspondent. Many uncensored details about the characteristics of the Germans and Belgians.

NO BEAUTY WITHOUT HEALTH.

Health is the source of beauty, and every rule for beauty is simply a rule for health. A girl can not have a firm, elastic body, a clear skin, fine color and bright eyes unless she exercises, sleeps and eats profusely and sufficiently. All these outward charms appeal to the eye, but how much deeper and most lasting is the impression when there is beauty of character as well. It is not strange how persons who seem plain and unattractive to the casual eye, seen often, become absolutely beautiful to us in their revelation of character. And how some whom we consider beautiful at first, when better known, seem only ugly and unattractive, because of some defect of character. Character will out. We may try to hide our defects, but it is useless. We may deceive for a time, but ere long we are known and valued for what we really are in spite of our efforts and pretense.

Women porters carry the luggage of tourists in the Island of Capri. The men are occupied as fishers, coachmen and coral sellers.

dream of faith. I never heard that he ever embodied his idea in the stone, but I fell abolved now from the pledge of secrecy given until he could give it to the world. I have often thought of the artist's contrasted figures as a most striking presentation of the difference between the Christian and the worldling as both face death.

The most gifted of earth, without Christ can only look forward to the despair that invests that scene in Hector's home, whilst the humblest believer in Christendom contemplates death with serenity. He can say with David: "I will fear no evil; for Thou art with me: Thy rod and Thy staff comfort me."

Maysville, Ky.

IF I WERE A SALESMAN.

If I were a man with goods to sell, And landed a chance my tale to tell, To a man with power to buy; I never would talk about shows and things,

Or give my views on warring kings,

While the precious minutes fly.

With a funny yarn I would not begin,

But right from the jump I would buckle in

To tell of the goods I had.

My competitors I'd never knock,

But I'd boast the quality of my stock,

And get out my order pad.

I never would waste his time or mine,

In chatting of weather, bad or fine,

Or arguing politics;

I'd waste no talk on a tale of woe,

Or bring out a deck of cards to show

A few of my clever tricks.

The war that's on I would quite forget,

And the tariff, too; and the nation's debt;

Though the times are out of joint.

I'd start right in from the jump to dwell

On the articles I had there to sell,

And I'd talk right to the point.

I'd pass up religion and lodges, too;

And art and science and novels new,

And the women that I had met.

I'd stick right close to my little job,

And make no mention of Tyrus Cobb,

Or friends in the upper set;

I'd business do in a business way,

And I think I'd find my scheme would pay.

But still, if my goods he spurned,

I'd travel on with this thought sub-lime,

That I had been digging at all the time.

And had left no stone unturned.

BOTH GET STUNG.

THE HEN AS A POSSIBLE TYPHOID CARRIER.

The problem of the carrier in various infectious diseases has long vexed the sanitarian who is bent on discovering every possible mode of transmission and every portal of entry for the germs. Human carriers of typhoid and diphtheria germs, themselves immune to attacks of the malady, are now watched for in nearly every community, and the danger which they represent as a latent source of infection is clearly recognized. Doubtless, says the Journal of the American Medical Association, many of these possibilities for spreading disease without the presence of detectable symptoms are still unrecognized. In typhoid, it has been shown that some of the lower animals may be made typhoid carriers; and attention has lately been directed to such animals as might be expected to become carriers by reason of their environment or habits. Mitchell and Bloomer of the bacteriologic laboratory of the University of Missouri have pointed out that the chicken is a domestic animal which might often come into contact with typhoid discharges. The mechanical transference of typhoid bacilli on the feet and bill of a chicken does, without question, occur. By various methods they have attempted to follow the germ. From the work of the Missouri bacteriologists it would seem that the hen is highly resistant to typhoid. It not only fails to take the disease, but apparently can not be made a carrier except in a mechanical way.

A DUTIFUL HUSBAND.

A man who had overestimated his capacity for the amber fluid was arrested on the street for improper conduct. In the police court the next morning the usual charge of intoxication was filed against him, and he was fined $5, which he promptly paid. This done, he went out with a very worried expression on his countenance, only to return a few minutes later and cautiously approach the clerk.

"I have the counterpart to this in mind," said the sculptor. "It is the figure of the Christian pilgrim walking through the valley of the shadow of death. A serpent crosses his path and a skull is lying near his feet, and the cements of the grave are all about him, but Christian marches confidently on. In his hand is the staff given him by his Savior, and on his uplifted forehead there falls the light of the resurrection glory, though his lower members be steeped in the gloom of the grave. Even the night has become light about him."

Many a girl fails to select the right husband because she's afraid of being left, and many a boy makes a misue by imagining there's only one girl in the world.—Oil City Blizzard.

What does it avail you if of many thorns only one can be removed?—Juvenal.

POLITICS.

While the candidates are spilling and arousing red fire feeling with hot speeches which beseech us to reflect before we vote, most men need some true pathfinder to escape from each spellbinder whose words stinging and mud-slinging seek to get some brother's goat! How they rave about the platform, stride upon each other's flat form, as they wonder how in thunder any one can have the nerve to make a try; when with Hendershot and whatnot seeking scalps and wildly screeching, slinging mud, foregoing preaching, every man a villain, deepest dye! Fields the major has forsaken, neophytes have undertaken, to recover for their own; all old timers, on the level, 'twixt the deep sea and the devil, wait upon the striplings in the bush. All unselfish, anti-peafish, seeking only to do right, they would forego compensation for the sake of reformation, take the push! They would never, never fool us, but to save us they would rule us, perching virtue, white-winged goddess, up above the city's door! Scoring polities and scoffing, scolding office in the offing, save us! save us! they implore.—"Contrib."

THINGS NOT TO WORRY ABOUT.

In handling an incubator the versatility of a hen's nature does not have to be reckoned with.

NEAR DEATH
BY SMOOTHERING

But Husband, With Aid of Cardui, Effects Her Deliverance.

Dr. R. C. Mrs. Helen Dalton, of this place, says: "I suffered for years with pains in my left side, and would almost smother to death.

Medicines patched me up for awhile but then I would get worse again. Finally, my husband decided he wanted me to try Cardui, the wicman's tonic, so he bought me a bottle and I began using it. It did me more good than all the medicines I had taken.

I have induced many of my friends to try Cardui, and they all say they have been benefited by its use. There never has been, and never will be, a medicine to compare with Cardui. I believe it is a good medicine for all womanly troubles."

For over 50 years, Cardui has been relieving woman's sufferings and building weak women up to health and strength. If you are a woman, give it a fair trial. It should surely help you, as it has a million others.

Get a bottle of Cardui to-day.

DAM NO. 33

Now Great Industrial Camp—One Hundred and Fifty Men At Work—Contractors Pushing Things While the Pushing Is Good.

Work is progressing rapidly and soon will be going full blast.

Yesterday The Ledger man started up to Dam No. 33 and found things booming there. Over 150 men are busily engaged and the place resembles a beehive.

The men all seem satisfied and their treatment, from their answers, is of the best; something which you do not often see in a large camp.

NOTES.

The carpenters are building a gasoline tugboat, sixty feet long. When finished, it will be equipped with a sixty-five horse-power engine and will be used to convey material from one point to another.

The steamer Frank Tyler is back, after a hurried trip to Ashland to draw down some more material for the dam.

The coffer-dam is already built out 200 feet. It is twenty-five feet wide and will be filled with mud, etc., until it is able to stand the pressure, then the water will be pumped out and real work will begin on the foundation of the lock, etc.

A narrow-gauge railroad has been built from the top of the river bank to the coffer-dam and will be used to haul dirt for the walls of the coffer-dam.

Over 150 men are at work upon the dam. Many more will be put to work in a few days.

The Maysville Street Railway is putting on trailers on the street cars for the benefit of the men who work on the dam.

Bates-Rogers stand for cleanliness, as in the near future a large number of shower baths for the employees will be built.

Over 300 feet of two-inch pipe is being laid for the conveyance of water.

A water tank sixty feet high, holding about 25,000 gallons, is being built upon the hill back of the dam. The water from the well will be pumped to this tank and then distributed by gravity all over the works.

About fifteen hoisting engines are on the grounds, ready for work. They will be used for many purposes, pumping, etc.

Mr. J. G. Hirsh, civil engineer, has arrived here to take up work on the dam.

Mr. H. A. Murray, head of the commissary department, served supper to about sixty men Monday. The Ledger man being an invited guest. Here is the menu:

Potatoes Mashed Potatoes Boiled Cabbage Stewed Prunes Doughnuts Cakes Peaches Coffee

The supper was laid in the large dining hall and everything was spotlessly clean, orderly and the best of service was maintained.
